

Allegheny County Economic Development (ACED) and the Southwestern Pennsylvania Commission (SPC), in cooperation with the City of Pittsburgh Department of City Planning and Carnegie Borough, are pleased to announce exciting opportunities to provide input in the development of transit-oriented community development plans in two West Busway communities – Carnegie Borough and the Sheraden neighborhood in the City of Pittsburgh.

The purpose of the meetings, open to the public, is to engage residents and transit users in the West Busway corridor in a process to develop a vision for revitalization and economic development in the area around these two West Busway stations (only the station at the meeting location will be addressed during each meeting). After a brief presentation about the project and an overview of transit-oriented community development, participants will break into small groups to discuss the types of amenities, improvements, and development that could enhance quality of life and provide work / live / play options in the station areas. The results of the visioning exercise will be shared at a future workshop.

We hope you can join us at the station-area visioning workshops:

Sheraden, City of Pittsburgh

Tuesday, March 23, 2010

5:30 pm to 7:30 pm

Sheraden Senior Center

720 Sherwood Avenue,
 Pittsburgh, PA 15204

Carnegie Borough

Wednesday, March 24, 2010

5:30 pm to 7:30 pm

Carnegie Borough Building, Council
 Meeting Room

One Veterans Way
 Carnegie, PA 15106

The workshops are a part of the West Busway Area Transit-Oriented Development Assessment and Plan. This planning study is an exciting project to develop a vision for transit-oriented development (TOD) at stops and stations along the West Busway corridor. More information about the project is provided in the attached summary.

If you have any questions regarding the workshops, please contact Ann Ogoreuc at URS Corporation at (412) 503-4583 or ann_ogoreuc@urscorp.com